

Antigonon leptopus 'Baja Red' Queen's Wreath

Queen's wreath is an herbaceous vine that grows rapidly to about 20 feet. Native to Baja California and western Mexico, it is commonly found in arroyos and canyons. In frost-free areas it is evergreen, but it freezes to the ground in most climates. The leaves are heart shaped and about 4" in length. Flower color may be white, pink or red, as in this selection. In frost-free areas flowering may continue year round! In colder areas, cut plants to the ground in early spring, and mulch the roots for greater frost protection.

AT A GLANCE SUMMARY
SIZE (H X W)	20 to 25 feet long
FLOWER COLOR	Red
FLOWER SEASON	Summer to fall
EXPOSURE	Full sun, reflected heat
WATER	Low to ample
GROWTH RATE	Slow to fast
HARDINESS	20° F, USDA Zone 9
PRUNING	Hard prune in early spring

VINE