

Gaura lindheimeri 'Pink Cloud' Pink Cloud Gaura

This native of Texas and Mexico has an airy and delicate appearance. Pink Cloud is a more vigorous and upright selection of Gaura, reaching 2 to 3 feet tall and wide, often in one season. The leaves are narrow and dark green, often tinged with purple coloration. From spring through fall, masses of dark pink flowers are produced at branch tips, some supplemental summer irrigation and minor deadheading can keep this plant in bloom all through the warm season. Plant in full sun to partial shade and provide good drainage. It is ideal for planting under desert trees. Gaura is in the evening primrose family, and is susceptible to flea beetles. Cold hardy to -20°F , USDA Zone 5.
